Forecast For East Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 12 Aug 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Dull and cloudy day for most. Northwestern parts brighter.

Today:
Bright start for northwestern areas, with sunny spells, but likely cloudier across the south and east with the odd spot of drizzle. This cloud perhaps spreading further northwestwards briefly during the morning, before very gradually easing away southeast later. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Tonight:
Still cloudy for some southern and eastern areas, but clear skies across most parts soon developing for all. Chance of further patchy cloud developing across northwestern hills later. Staying dry. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Friday:
A fine and dry day for most with sunny spells and variable cloud. However, some areas of thicker cloud likely affecting some southwestern parts, with a chance of drizzle. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Mostly fine Saturday. Turning unsettled with spells of rain or showers Sunday and Monday, potentially persistent for a time. Some sunny spells also possible. Low confidence in rain details.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.